eZCom Software, Makers of Lingo EDI, Wins Two Stevie® Awards for Women in Business in 11th Annual Competition

NEW YORK CITY -- Recently at their 2014 competition, the Stevie Awards for Women in Business honored eZCom Software, makers of the smart and streamlined EDI application Lingo, with two awards: Company of the Year for Business Services (more than 10 employees), and Best New Business Product or Service of the Year (for eZCom Software's Drop Ship to Consumer EDI Application).

Shining a spotlight on women executives, entrepreneurs, and organizations run by women, the Stevie Awards for Women in Business is an international competition produced by the creators of the prestigious International Business Awards and American Business Awards. The Stevie is widely considered to be the world's premier business award. With more than 400 businesswomen and their guests in attendance, the awards were announced at a gala dinner at the Marriott Marquis Hotel in New York City on Friday, November 14.

More than 1,200 nominations from organizations and individuals in 22 nations were submitted to the awards this year for consideration in categories including Entrepreneur of the Year, Executive of the Year, Most Innovative Company of the Year, and Best New Company of the Year, among others. More than 160 professionals from around the world participated in the judging process.

"We are thrilled to have received this honor," said Carol Weidner, CEO of eZCom Software. "eZCom's company culture values each employee's contribution, supports innovation and creative thinking, emphasizes collaboration, and enables each team member to excel at strengths and receive support through challenges. This highly creative environment enables us to maintain a high standard of excellence in both capabilities and service. It also fosters important technological innovation, such as our drop ship to consumer EDI application, which has won multiple awards and been singled out as a best practice model in our industry. Overall, enhanced functionality of our EDI solution Lingo over the past year has resulted in industry accolades, positive feedback from our current customer base, and significant expansion of that customer base."
